Nerves. DANGERS TO WHICH WORKING-MEN AND WOMEN ARE EXPOSED.

Thousands Saved by the Timely Use of Dr. Greene's Nervura.

Those who are familiar with the hide Those who are familiar with the hide-our roar of a boiler factory or the deaf-ening blows of a trip hammer readily realize how noise affects the nerves. Few understand, however, that the incessant clatter of a loom or the gentle buzzing of a sewing machine are equally exhaust-ing. It is everlasting monotony that over-strains the nervex and undermines tha strains the nerves and undermines the strongest constitutions. Work must be varied to be healthful, and few workingmen and working women are able to hange their occupations in the slightest degree or to modify their surroundings This explains why derangements of the nerves and blood are so common among people whom the unthinking expect to be models of health. It is diseased nerves and weak or vitiated blood that drive so many workingmen to alcoholic stimulants and many workingwomen to morphine and other seductive drugs. There is only one specific for diseases of the nerves and blood, and that is Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. This sovereign remedy will promptly and permanently cure nervous weakness and exhaustion, loss of ambi-tion and spirits, inability to sleep, craving stimulants, nervous headache

If you feel the need of medical advice. Greene invites you to consult wit him fully and freely, personally or by let-ter, at his office. No. 35 west Fourteenth street, New York city. Dr. Greene makes no charge for consultation and advice.

Alleged to Have Been Counterfeiting

Money-He Says "Conspiracy." CLEVELAND, O., September 28,-Captain Webb, of the Secret Service, and Deputy Marshal Keeley went to Canton yesterday to finish work on a counterfelting case. They there searched the residence of Rev. Gabriel Hostetter, 1122 Park avenue, and in the cellar found counterfelt silver dollars, material from which they might have been made, and two moulds which fit the bogus coins per-feetly. The officers also searched the basemen of Rev. Mr. Hostetter's church, the Re-formed Baptist, which is near where the pastor lives, but nothing was revealed. Rev. Mr. Hostetter was placed under arrest and taken to Massillon, where he was arraigned before United States Con missioner Folger. He walved examina-tion, and was brought to Cleveland, where he is now in fail.

The minister vehemently denies that he is a counterfeiter, and says he was not aware that the coins and dies were in his cellar. He declares that it is a onspiracy on the part of relatives of his. Rev. Gabriel Hostetter is 64 years of age, and has four children. It is generally believed that he is not a regularly ordained minister of the Baptist Church.

able, from a high source, to give an outline of the position of both commissions. While the Americans have instructions which are much more precise than those of the Spaniards, there is a diversity of opinion in regard to the Philippines. Senator Gray is a very ardent Democrat, and consequently belongs to the party which repudiates expansion; and his opinion, therefore, totally differs from that of the other four commissioners, some of whom would be content with a coaling station in the Philippines, possibly, at Cavite, while others, like Senator Davis, advocate the annexation of the whole archipelago."

The Gaulois, however, believes that the Americans, by mutual concessions, will come to an agreement, and that they will be largely influenced by Major-General

Merritt's report on the situation.

The instructions to the Spanish commission, still, according to the Gaulois, are briefly to hold out and make the best terms possible. Madrid is well aware that the conferences are only to please the Spanish people, and the only hopes entertained are that the Americans will not abuse the situation too much. Popular sentiment, it is added, thinks it better to resign all of the Philippines than to keep them under conditions rendering them undesirable.

Major Shanks has not yet decided upor uartering the Third Regiment in the Exhange and Ballard Hotel buildings, but it is more than likely that he will sign a ease for them, though before he does so he will have to get authority from the War Department. FOURTH'S SURGEONS ALL RIGHT.

Captain Clarence Wyatt, of Company H, Fourth Virginia, arrived here yesterday on a fifteen-day furlough. The Cap-tain thinks the criticisms of the surgeons of the Fourth Regiment very unjust and without reason.

"I am convinced," said he, "that the surgeons of the Fourth are men who seek to do their duty, and they attend to the sick cases properly. Of course, we have a good many men who are intemperate, and who make excuses to get off duty. The surgeons discover many 'fake' cases of indisposition and decline to excuse the men. This makes for them enemies. There was some criticism of the surgeons when we first reached Jacksonville, but it should be remembered that all of us had a good deal to learn when we enter-ed the service. COL. B. G. BALDWIN DEAD.

Gallant Member of General R. E.

Lee's Staff Passed Away in Texas. A telegram to Dr. Hunter McGuire, received late yesterday afternoon, announced the death in Bryan, Tex., a few hours before, of his wife's uncle, Colonel Briscow Girard Baldwin.

Colonel Baldwin was a gallant soldier in the Confederate army, and served through the war as chief of ordnance on General R. E. Lee's personal staff. He was originally an officer in the United States army, and for some time prior to the war was stationed off the Pacific coast. He, however, resigned his com-mission when Virginia—his native State seceded from the Union, and cast his lot with the South.

Deceased was born in Staunton about 73 years ago, and prior to his departure for Texas was very well known here. He went to the Lone Star State not very after the surrender, and was occupied there as a civil engineer until some years ago his health falled him, and since that time he has been engaged in no busi-

A BANQUET TO DR. MENZEL.

Will Be Honored by His Compatriots Before Leaving for Jerusalem.

Arrangements are being made to tender a banquet to Rev. Dr. Paul L. Menzel before he leaves for the Holy Land. The details of the entertainment have not yet been planned, but it is understood that they will be on quite an elaborate scale.

The German-Americans of Richmond are extremely proud that their distin-guished compatriot has been chosen to represent the Evangelical Synod of North America at the dedication of the Lathe ran church, in Jerusalem. They regard it as a distinction that should not go un-marked, and the banquet is being arranged as an expression of their esteem and to accent the honor that has been paid by the North American Synod to the eminent Doctor.

Condition of the Sick.

Mr. Charles T. Davis, who has been quite iil at the White Sulphur, and was brought home last Saturday, has improved considerably since reaching home. The condition of Major A. R. Courtney was slightly improved yesterday, but he is still desperately iil.

The condition of Rev. Dr. Charles H. Read is not considered as alarming as his removal to the Virginia Hospital would seem to indicate. He suffers no pain, and his life is in no immediate danger, though he is very feeble. The object of the change was to insure prompt medical attention and the best nursing possible.

Southside People Come To-Day.

The funeral of Mrs. L. R. Thornbill, wife of Rev. Dr. Thornhill, paster of Balnbridge-Street Baptist church, Manchester, took place yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at that church. A very large number of friends gather-

Dr. Hatcher made a brief, touching address on the Christian life of the de-ceased. He said: The scene before us marks the culmination of a sorrow which, like a cloud portentous, has hung over us for a half year. The final event has brought no surprise; it is simply the occurrence of the foreseen and inevitable. It is a bereavement whose harbingers have ously notifying us that it was on the The phases and forms of human grief are numberless, but I know nothing more poignant than the grief of beholding our loved ones yielding to certain decay, while we are helpless to relieve them. It is bitterness, indeed, to hear the rattle of the reaper's sickle as he ap-proaches, and yet to know that we cannot arrest his progress.

The unthinking and the heartless imagine that a grief foreseen is a grief assuaged. True, an affliction long extended to the heartless and it. pected loses its power to shock, and it is also true at times that compassion for the sufferer turns our love into a prayer for their release. But love is not reconclied to the loss of its object by seeing in advance that the loss must come. Watching at the bedside of our sick ones, if faithfully done, never made it easy to surrender them into the hands of death. Sorrow for our sick does not displace our sorrow at our death. If we love in days of strength and peace how much deeper that love becomes in the hour of weak-ness and suffering. The beloved family before us has been enriched by the kind-ness of many while they stood by the bedside of their sick, but they never needed more our fraternal compassion than they do as they are on the way to the cemetery to bury their dead. It is death that gives the final stroke, and under its shadow the heart feels its most orofound desolation.

It cannot be inappropriate for me to dive utterance to a few modest and unprofound desolation. exaggerated words concerning our de parted friend. Mrs. Thornhill was brought ip in one of the quiet, country homes Virginia, amid the foothills of the Blue Ridge mountains. She was the daughter of an honored physician in Appomattox county, Va., and growing up in phere of piety, refinement, and virtue, she became an intelligent and attractive woman. From her early youth she was a Christian, clear in her convictions, hones in her faith, happy in her hope, and zealous for the glory of her Redeemer. In her country church she was held in honor as a devout and enthusiastic girl, ready to do her part, and blameless in her life. On that auspicious day when she ecame the wife of him who sorrows at her bier this day, it was the blending of kindred natures, two souls so fully knit together that from that day no longer twain, but one Surely, Heaven must have smiled upon a marriage so congenial and so rich in mutual service and happiness.

GAVE HERSELF FOR OTHERS. If a criticism could be justly uttered against our deceased friend, it would be that she was wasteful—but wasteful only in the expenditure of her own strength for the comfort of her household. She spared not herself. A lady friend who knew her well said to me recently that Mrs. Thornhill was a martyr; that she was dying from overwork, to which she was driven by her large and self-forgetful devotion to her family. I recall approaching her some years ago with a request that her husband might accompany me on a trip abroad. I knew that the request signified much for her, both in the way of care and in the way of ise lation. It actually thrilled me to fin how entirely she omitted herself in the onsideration of the matter.

Nor was she less laborious and selfabnegating in her loyalty to her church. Her energies were engaged in depart ments of church activity which were well suited to her tastes. She knew quite well hat she could do; she had the measur of her own powers, and was slow to em-bark on dangerous seas. On the line of her chosen duties she spurned failure. She often wrung success from seeming! mpossible situations. Her spirit was in defatigable, and her associates would gladly testify to her value in the enterprises of her church. Nothing is more impressive than to see a woman, laden with domestic burdens, and often unreieved by capable help, who keeps is ouch with all the movements of he hurch, and is a distinct and graciou factor in its undertakings. Mrs. Thorn hill was no impatient aspirant for leader ship, but she was so honest and sensible and withall so heartful and determined in her spirit that she exerted great influence. It would be a scant tribute if I were to say that she enjoyed in a high degree the confidence and respect of her sex. She had far more than that. They loved her with a devotion which evince loved her with a devotion when extractive itself at last in a beautiful and mame rable way. During her long season of suffering she never had-never need indeed—a trained nurse. Many of these gave much of their time to caring for her. It would not be just to fail to say that never did wife or mother meet more faithful or loving attention than this dear woman received at the hands of her home circle. Indeed, the strain upon them was so long and intense that the solicitude felt for her was divided with them.

BOWEN TO THE FATHER'S WILL.

solved it. She accepted it as from her Father, and had no adverse comment to utter. She bowed to the will of God and suffered without one word of complaint. She was in the middle prime of her life, had a buoyant temperament, a vigorous love of life, and many strong earthly attachments, and yet she found herself supremely calm when brought face to face with death. Of course, her heart clunk to her kindred and friends, and her innate love of life remained. The backward look of life had for her many charms. But as for death, it seemed to awaken in her no dread. She counted it a call for her from Heaven, and she did not hesitate. It was her special care to let her tate. It was her special care to let her friends know that she feared neither dying nor death, and that the further outlook nor death, and that the further outlook was clear and inviting. She added a new dignity to death, and taught others the secret of dying easily. Many will under-stand better how to die by reason of having witnessed her sublime bearing in

She has left but a small margin for sor row. We may indulge in selfish lamenta-tions over the disaster which has befallen us, and vainly wish to recall her, but she made it so clear that she preferred to exchange earth for Heaven, that we lose fellowship with her deploring her departure. Let us rise to the joyful height of the occasion, and bless the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ that she has finished her career with such resplendent triumph.

Many friends followed the remains to

THE EPISCOPAL CONVENTION.

Questions of Moment Coming Before Governing Body of the Church.

(Philadelphia Press.) Clergymen and lay members of the Protestant Episcopal Church are looking forward with keen interest to the triennial general convention, which is to be held in Washington from October 5th on. Questions of great influence upon the future of the Church will come up for consideration, and radical departures from existing conditions have been suggested. Lengthy and vigorous debate is expected on many of these questions.

The general convention is organized as a House of Bishops and a House of Deputies. In the House of Deputies each regular diocese is entitled to four cierical and four lay delegates, while the missionary diocese may send one cierical and one lay delegate each, who the privilege of debate, but no vote.

The question which has been most discussed, in anticipation of the action of the general convention, arises from a proposed revision of the canon marriage and divorce. Many high churchmen and not a few low churchmen favor the substitution of a new canon which will make it impossible for a clergyman, legally, to unite in mar-riage either party to a divorce. A petition for the adoption of a canon on the question of marriage and divorce has already received 2,000 signa-

riage of divorced persons at present in force is as follows: force is as follows:

No minister, knowingly, after due inquiry, shall solemnize the marriage of any person who has a divorced husband or wife still living, if such husband or wife still living, if such husband or wife has been put away for any cause arising after marriage; but this canon shall not be held to apply to the innocent party in a divorce for the cause of adultery, or to parties once divorced seeking to be In making its report, which will be

Eugene A. Hoffman, Rev. James S. Stone, Rev. Hall Harrison, Rev. F. P. Davenport, Rev. J. Houston Eccleston, and Rev. William R. Huntington, and Megsrs. W. H. Lightner, E. G. Bradford, F. D. the Church will also come up for con-sideration. It is held by many that the present name—the Protestant Episcopal Church—does not really indicate the scope the purpose of the Church. They claim that it is really the Holy Catholic Church, and they suggest that it be called the American Catholic Church. Others Evor

Pyramid Pile Cure Cures Pile Quickly, Painlessly, Without

People go along for years suffering with piles. Then try this, and that, and the other thing; from carrying a buckeye to getting treatment from a physician. They obtain temporary relief, may be, but they are never quite cured. A little strain in lifting, excessive fatigue, a little constipation, or a little diarrhoea, and the

They don't seem to amount to much, out they banish sleep and appetite. No post-tion is comfortable. There is intense local pain and that dreadful feeling of weight in the perineum.

May be in the early stages some of the many salves on sale will afford temporary relief. If the case is of long standing there is only one speedy and sure remedy It is Pyramid Pile Cure. Even in light cases it is the safest thing to use. Other applications may cure and may not. Pyramid Cure is always certain, always reliable, and always brings comfort at once. Its prompt use saves months of severe suffering. In extreme cases it will save surgical operations and their at-tendant dangers and discomforts. It is better than the knife. Will cure easier, quicker, and safer. Thousands have used it. Thousands have been cured The cost is trifling compared with what it does. The price is 56 cents. Most any-body would gladly pay $10 to be rid of

For this name, the claim is made that the now Protestant Episcopal Church has never changed from the time of the apos-ties, and that it is a part of the Holy Catholic Church; it is, therefore, a part of the Church—that is, the only church which dates back to the apostles, and which has preserved intact the teachings of the apostles, according to the Word of God, and it is consequently, perfectly just and proper that it should have the title of "The Church," the words "in America" being added to distinguish it from the Roman Catholic Church, the Greek Church, and the Church of England. FLOUR TRUST IN PROSPECT. If It is Formed the Capital Will Be

(New York Press-27th.) There is a good prospect of the formation of a flour trust, with a capital stock of $150,000,000. Some mention was made such a scheme about three weeks ago but then the propositions were merely of a tentative character. Now the plans are beginning to take some definite shape. They have advanced so far that Thomas A. McIntyre, of McIntyre & who formed the Hecker-J Hecker-Jones-Jewell Milling Company and the Brooklyn Wharf and Warehouse Company, has gone to Minneapolis to complete the details if it is possible to do so Mr. MeIntyre left this city on Saturday. He was accompanied by William Glyn, the president of the Pillsbury-Washburn Company. Mr. Glyn arrived here from London on Saturday and started for the West without the delay of an

As previously told, it is the plan of the promoters of the flour trust to include the flour mills in this city, those in Minneapolis and Milwaukee, and others in Duluth and Superior, in one big company. This is the general outline of the plan, and it is all that is known definitely. The details of the scheme either will be decided quickly in Minneapolis or the plan will be dropped. Mr. McIntyre is expected to return to New York on Thurs-

tion at Princeton.

NEW YORK, September 27 .- Grover Cleveland is believed to be the principalor, at all events, the most famous-member of a syndicate which is engaged in a prodigious real estate speculation at Princeton, N. J. The project of these men of millions, among whom J. Pierpont Morgan and E. C. Benedict are mentioned most prominently, is nothing less than to found a club-house and winter resort sufficiently charming to become a rival to the finest in this part of the country.

Already has the land been purchased for this formidable undertaking, and a beautiful territory it is, with a frontag of a mile and a half on Stony brook It consists of two properties, the fine farm of Lewis J. Applegate and the lordly estate which is known as the Henry C. Johnson farm.

ACETYLENE GAS IN WABASH. City to Be Lighted With the New II-luminant. WABASH, IND., September 27 .-Wabash, the first city in the world to be illuminated by electricity, will enjoy the distinction of being the first lighted by acetylene gas. This illuminant has been utilized in isolated plants, but now Presi-dent Dietrich, of the Logansport and Wabash Valley Gas Company, and Mr. Knapp, a Chicago expert, after an inspection of the artificial gas system here, have decided to make the experiment of lighting a city.

The purpose is, if the test is successful.

to supplant coal gas with acetylene in all of the numerous cities in the Indiana gas-field where the Dietrich syndicate has a monopoly of the supply of natural and artificial gas. The change here will be a thorough one. A heavy cut in rates will follow the introduction of the new gas, and President Dietrich hopes to displace not only coal gas but electricity in commercial consumption. The change is to be effected at once.

More than twenty million free samples of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve have been distributed by the manufacturers. What better proof of their confidence in its merits do you want? It cures piles, burns, scalds, sores, in the shortest space of time.

ADJUTANT-GENERAL CORBIN. He Was Court-Martialled for Cowardice During the Civil War.

(New York World.)

Adjutant-General Corbin was cour martialled during the civil war. The official charge of cowardice was made after the battle of Nashville, December 15 and 16, 1884. Colonel Thomas J. Morgan then commanded the Fourteenth United States Colored Infantry, in General J. B. Steadman's left wing of Army of the Cumberland. General Morgan acted as general of a division in the battle of Nashville against the Confede rates, under General Hood. Morgan's Division consisted of the Fourteenth, Seventeenth, Forty-fourth, part of the Elshteenth Regiment, all United States col-ored infantry; part of the Tweatisth Indiana Artillery, and a brigade of white troops, commanded by Lieutenant-Colone Charles H. Grosvenor. When Colonel Morgan took command of the division, Lieutenant-Colonel H C. Corbin became acting colonel of the Fourteenth Colored Infantry. The battle lasted two days.

Lieutenant-Colonel Corbin was accused of hiding behind trees and seeking safety in the rear of the fighting line. A court-martial was order vened in February, 1865, with Lieutenant-Colonel Charles H. Grosvenor, of the Eighteenth Ohio Regiment, as Judge-Ad-big made by Colonel Thomas J. Morgan to made by Colonel Thomas J. Morgan to General Steadman, commanding t of the Army of the Cumberland, is this "I regret to say that Colonel Corbin does not possess the courage to command brave men." This report is part of the rebellion record published by the United States Government. Although the fact of the cour martial has been widely known, no cial importance was attached to it un General Corbin came to occupy the posi-tion of great responsibility which he now fills. When public attention was turned toward the personnel of those highest authority in the War Department. act that General Corbin had been court martialled for cowardice in presence the enemy became a matter of great pub-

Quarles in Cumberland.

CUMBERLAND COURTHOUSE, VA. September 28.-(Special.)-Yesterday was our County Court, and a very large crowd was in attendance. Hon. J. M. Quaries.

Democratic candidate for Congress from the Tenth District, was present and addressed the people in the court-house.
He was introduced by Judge John.
Reynolds. Judge Quaries made a very effective speech, and although it was his effective speech, and although it was his first visit to Cumberland, the people were well pleased with him, and there is no doubt that he will receive the full Democratic vote at the November election.

Judge Quarles will remain in the county several days canyassing it. several days canvassing it.
